Wow look at me go I finished my project before the day that it's due. I had fun with this one, though did the spacing make me feel insane at some points also yes. I definitely found a creative way to stagger the text, though I'm sure there was a more efficient way to do that.

Here are my notes and thoughts along the way

I didn't plan on including this, that's why the format looks crazyyy.

In regards to the project I started working on it and when I'd get stuck I'd abandon ship in a way by making a copy of the code and then use a completely different method. I wound up not liking any of the new ways I tried so I came back to my original code and modified that one. And of course after a good night's rest the code magically wanted to work with me.